About Theme - Contemporary Issues in Banking and Finance

The growth and development of Indian economy depends on the growth and development of agriculture, industry and service sectors. The banking and finance sectors have tremendous roles in mobilization of savings and deployment of credits in all these sectors. However, during post LPG period, the role of banking and finance sectors have undergone massive changes and the phenomenon continues. The recent developments in banking and finance viz., mergers and acquisitions, corporate finance and governance, technology, micro finance, institutional credit, innovative debt instruments, banking and bank assurance, credit risk management, asset liability management, reverse mortgage, etc., have impacted the growth and development of banking and finance sectors. The Indian banking sector has been facing issues which accumulated bad loans, low return on assets, low capital base, global competition, low CD ratio, technological changes, cyber security threats, continuous innovations, low connectivity, low spread, scams, customer retention, rising expectations of customers and society, new business models, new regulations, cultural shifts, new instruments, etc.

Objectives of the National Seminar

- To discuss contemporary issues in banking and finance.
- To examine banking policies of Central Government.
- To study the role of Central Bank in regulating the banking sector.
- To study the management structure and managerial efficiency of banks.
